Renowned bridge educator Audrey Grant looks at defending against notrump contracts with a focus on how the opening lead impacts subsequent defense. She covers the oldest maxim, when to lead partner's suit, why to avoid leading the opponents' suit, what to lead from a sequence, when to lead the 'top of nothing' and when to 'take the tricks and run.' Customer Reviews

Full disclosure, I am not a fantastic bridge player. But this book really helped me. If you are a really great bridge player, I doubt that this book will help except to reinforce what you already know. But for someone like me it is a fantastic resource.

Thanks for being written in an easy-to-use format and language. It is not always popular or preferred to take a complicated subject and then make it usefully understandable to most persons. It takes an excellent teacher Ms. Grant.

Some great ideas for leads and how to interpret your partner's leads and discards.

Very good; easy to follow - not for the very beginner.

good reference for better understanding

Audrey Grant is the best when learning strategy
