Understanding Central America: Global Forces, Rebellion, And Change, 5th Edition

Synopsis

The fifth edition of Understanding Central America explains how domestic and global political and economic forces have shaped rebellion and regime change in Costa Rica, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras. John A. Booth, Christine J. Wade, and Thomas W. Walker explore the origins and development of the region's political conflicts and its efforts to resolve them. Covering the region's political and economic development from the early 1800s onward, the authors provide a background for understanding Central America's rebellion and regime change of the past forty years. This revised edition brings the Central American story up to date, with special emphasis on globalization, evolving public opinion, progress toward democratic consolidation, and the relationship between Central America and the United States under the Obama administration, and includes analysis of the 2009 Honduran coup d'état. A useful introduction to the region and a model for how to convey its complexities in language readers will comprehend, Understanding Central America stands out as a must-have resource.

The 5th updated edition of Understanding Central America: Global Forces, Rebellion and Change represents a major upgrade, updating events and even rethinking the basic theoretical issues at the heart of any key understanding of the region as a whole. As such this remains a powerful textbook on Central American politics, and a 'must' for any college-level library.

My copy arrived in great condition. This book has been Extremely helpful for me in writing my thesis on Central American migrant children. It covers history way back, politics, economy, everything that made Central America what it is today. Highly recommend this book.

Anyone who wants a brief history of the Central American region will enjoy this book. It's short and well researched, If brevity is your goal, this is for you Exactly how the seller said it would be. I love this THANK YOU!!!
