Customer Reviews

This is the second Nolo book that I have reviewed. The Credit Repair 9th Edition is the most current for 2009. As usual in the Nolo series, the authors provide a wealth of information about the credit repair process. Everything is explained in clear, easy to understand terms and each chapter is filled with extra information. The book is divided into six major sections. 1. Assessing Your Debt Situation, gives realistic options for dealing with debts including reducing spending, saving and legal options.

2. Avoid Overspending helps you with keeping track of expenditures, budgeting and spending plans. 3. Handle Existing Debts helps to break down debts into categories, deal with creditors and collection agencies including what collection practices are legal and illegal. 4. Clean Up Your Credit Report gives information on what is in your credit report, how to get a copy, review it, dispute inaccurate information found in your report, add information to it and avoid identity theft. Did you know that health and life insurance companies request information on your medical history from the Medical Information Bureau? This is one of the many gems found in this book. 5. How Creditors and Employers Use Your Credit Report tells you who can legally look at your report and how credit apps are evaluated. 6. Building and Maintaining Good Credit gives tips for how to build credit in your name, use credit cards wisely, avoiding credit repair clinics and credit discrimination. The appendix includes contact information on Credit and Debt Counseling agencies and services, online resources and state consumer protection agencies. All of the forms found in the book are available on the included CD. Make sure that you use the Save As drop down list to save them as Word files on your PC.
